

ABSTRACT

5 A high response speed semiconductor photo detecting device having a thin photo absorption layer which avoids an optical efficiency loss. The semiconductor photo detecting devices are formed on a semiconductor substrate having an inclined cleavage face to a principle plane of the substrate. An incoming photo signal is input to the cleavage face perpendicularly.

10